WEALTH, HAPPINESS: What indicators to build tomorrow?

INTERNATIONAL FORUM FOR WELL BEING

www.bienvivre2018.org
Welcome to the International Forum for Well Being

Wealth, happiness: what indicators to build tomorrow?

For more than 30 years, many experiments have been conducted at the international, regional and local levels proposing alternatives to the GDP as the standalone indicator. These initiatives question the idea of infinite growth in a finite world and seek to measure and better take into account well-being, human and social development, quality of life, living together.

For all citizens involved in building a just and sustainable society, the question of indicators provides the basis for concerted action. The Grenoble forum, an exceptional event in France and Europe, will be the opportunity to take a step further, from observation to action. How can these indicators promote practices that a just and sustainable society merits? How can these indicators promote practices that are part of a vision of a just and sustainable society?

Volunteers, elected officials, technicians, researchers, entrepreneurs but above all citizens, you have been many to tell us your interest in the subject, to support us in the organisation of this event and to get involved for its success: this Forum is yours, thank you for all the stones already asked, it is up to us to continue to build it together ... Good Forum to all!

Program

3 days of conferences, round-tables, projection-debates, artistic interventions, workshops...
3 days to reinvent tomorrow!

Built in a collegial manner, the program of the International Forum for Well-Being aims at reconciling in their preoccupations, both citizens and civil society, researchers, municipalities, and economic actors: at the heart of this Forum, the challenge is to cross aspirations in order to reinforce alliances and enable a change of scale!

With a rich and diverse program, the Forum aims at being the reflection of the various experiences, initiatives and reflexions emerging in the world, concerning the question of alternative indicators. It is structured around 3 big focus:

1. Rethinking our models of society
2. Going from indicators to action
3. Defining collectively what really counts

The program is organised for everyone to be able to find its place, alternating between:
- Conferences and round-tables to nourish debates and think deeply about topics (in the mornings and evenings);
- Workshops built from propositions received following the call for contributions which opened at the end of 2017;
- Free and animated spaces, giving the possibility for everyone to contribute and speak;
- Cultural propositions for a change of perspective (afternoons and evenings).

An international and pluridisciplinary scientific symposium, open to all will take place every afternoon at the heart of the Forum. Organised by Grenoble Alpes University and the social science laboratory Pacte, it will reunite researchers of various fields of study (human and societal sciences, biology and earth sciences, medicinal sciences, ...) who work on the question of human development and its indicators.

PLENARIES THAT BRING US TOGETHER

WEDNESDAY 6TH OF JUNE • 9:30-10:15 AM
Official welcome by the organizers

PLENARY 1
WEDNESDAY 6TH OF JUNE • 10:15-11:45 AM
Towards a fair and sustainable development: Ecological and social dead-locks of the current model

This opening plenary will enable to be part of a vision of a fair and sustainable society, to question the idea of infinite growth in a finite world, and to begin open ways to rethink and change models. Before talking about indicators, it is necessary to set a course, because any indicator only shows what we ask it to look at.

SPEAKERS
• Vivian Labrie, independent researcher (Quebec)
  Member of the Erasme multidisciplinary team (Research and Action Team in mental health and culture) and associate researcher at IRIS (socio-economic research and information Institute, Quebec). During the 1990s, she engaged in collective actions aimed at a poverty-free Quebec, which led to the adoption of the law to combat poverty and social exclusion (2002).

• Pablo Solon, politician (Bolivia)
  Activist in the social and nature field. He was Bolivia’s Ambassador to the United Nations (2009-2011). He was behind the adoption by the United Nations Assembly of several resolutions, including the recognition of the Human Right to Water and the declaration of International Mother Earth Day. He was responsible for Bolivia’s climate negotiations at the United Nations, then (2012-2015), Executive Director in Bangkok of Focus on the Global South.

FACILITATOR
• Bernard Salamand, director of Ritimo, former president of CRID

PLENARY 1 (CONTINUED)
WEDNESDAY 6TH OF JUNE • 11:45-12:30 AM
Indicators, powers and limits
Open the black box of indicators and better understand their issues, their construction and their limits. It gives to the participants all the tools to take over entirely the question of indicators.

SPEAKER
• Florence Jany-Catrice, economist, University of Lille (Lille, Clerê-UMR801)
  Researcher at the Centre for sociological and economic Studies and Research of Lille. Author of numerous works including “new indicators of wealth” co-authored with Jean Gadrey (Le Découvre, “Reperes”, 2016, 4th updated edition[2005]. She is co-chairing the FAIr association (Forum for other indicators of wealth).

• Bernard Salamand, director of Ritimo, former president of CRID

PLENARY 2
WEDNESDAY 6TH OF JUNE • 6:00-8:00 PM
Inspirations: other models, other compasses
And if we were to get off the beaten tracks? This plenary opens up great horizons towards another way to look at the world, the development… our relationship with others and nature… These “inspirations”, from 4 corners of the world, represented by men and women who have attempted to translate this vision into directions, will open up prospects to think and act.

SPEAKERS
• Freddy Ehlers, journalist and politician (Ecuador)
  Character known to the general public since his program “La Télévision” of which he was presenter and producer in the 90s, in Ecuador. Candidate in the presidential elections (1996 and 1998), then Minister of Tourism (2010-2013), he was Secretary of State for the construction of the Living-Well society (2013-2017) under the government of Rafael Correa.

• Jenito Santana, social mobilizer, educator and activist within the Kdalalak Sulimutuk Institute (KSI) NGO (Timor-Leste)
  The KSI NGO works to prevent and resolve community tensions in Timor Leste, using the Tara Bandu method. This method combines traditional and modern knowledge and takes an active part in defining a new social code to regulate potential conflicts between humans, animals and Nature.
THURSDAY 7TH • 6:00-8:00 PM
From the growth to the living well: How to bring about a change of course?

Using Living Well as a political direction, what difference does it make, in concrete terms, in the content and the way of doing politics, in the management of public policies?

In this plenary, elected representatives and key players from Latin America and from Asia will discuss with local decision-makers and elected representatives about the crucial issue of moving from vision to action.

SPEAKERS

• Dasho Karma Ura, President of the Center for Bhutan Studies and GNH (CBS), Bhutan
  He worked for 12 years for the ministry of Planning prior to becoming the director of the Center for Bhutan Studies (CBS) since its creation in 1999. The CBS is a cross-disciplinary research institute on social sciences which works on social, cultural, economic and polical well-being in Bhutan. It studies the bhutanese indicator the Growth National Happiness and produces analysis reports.

• Jésus Sang, State councillor of Ecuador, Ecuador
  Originally from Spain and graduated in sociology. Currently councillor of the General Secretariat of the president of Ecuador, Jésús Sang was responsible for the «Buen Viuir» Secretariat and was a councillor of the Ministry of the Social Development.

• José Alberto «Pepe» Mujica Cordano, former President of Uruguay 2010-2015 (by video)
  José Mujica is known for his refusal of the advantages linked with his position of President and for the societal reforms undertaken during his term of office. Ex-guerrilla of the extreme left, he lead for pragmatic reasons socio-democratic policy to meet the basic expectations but denounce the logic of consumerism created by the capitalistic system which he points out the human and environmental cost.
Free exchanges areas
Feel like you want to discuss a topic, start a debate, or continue a workshop? This « free » time, particularly arranged for you, is an opportunity to share your ideas with the other participants. First, you will need to write your suggestions on the notice boards at disposal all day, and then you will be able to present the topic you chose.

Experiences hub
They already tried them: 17 territorial collectivities have put in application local well-being indicators. They all have their story, their own method, their good ideas and their own issues. This experiences hub will give you access to 3 territory stories. The objective is to identify, together, similarities between each project.

The 2 key questions are: What common point(s) made these experiences successful? What variables must be carefully watched?

Impromised (but organised !) debate
No matter if you joined the Forum in the last days or not, this will be the opportunity to debate intelligently collectively.
You may as much choose one of the topics presented during the Forum, as discover new topics and debate with the other participants.

Speakers
• Territories: Ardèche, Auvergne-Rhône-Alpes, Canada, Clermont-Ferrand, Gironde, Grenoble, Hauts de France, Lyon, Narbonne, North East England, Occitanie, Parc du Vexin, Pas-de-Calais, Plaine Commune, Toulouse

Facilitator
• Françoise Pichavant, Urbanism agency in Grenoble area
ROUND-TABLE MEETINGS TO GO DEEPER ON SOME ISSUES

ROUND-TABLE MEETING 1
THURSDAY 7TH OF JUNE • 9:00-11:00 AM

Using indicators and territorial scales: how do we go from observation to project management?

This round-table meeting will be led by dialogue between international organizations, promoters of orientations and rules, and the 17 local experiences of building “alternative” indicators that will attend the Forum. The debate will engage on the basis of 3 central questions:

1. How can local and global scales communicate, between necessary comparativity and respect of special features?
2. How do indicators induce changes and, on the contrary why are they not taken into account?
3. What importance do the “well living” indicators have in a project management system: secondary or fundamental?

SPEAKERS
- Lukas Kleine-Rueschkamp, economist, OCDE/Better live index
- Ewa Sas, former deputy of Essonne, author of the Sas Law which aims at taking into account new wealth indicators in the public policies (France)
- Patrick O’Sullivan, Grenoble Management School and affiliated to Harvard Business School
- Slavica Zec, European Commission, Research Center on Finance and the Economy
- ... interacting with local experiences bearers

FACILITATORS
- Fiona Ottaviani, Grenoble Management School, comUE Grenoble Alpes, chair Mindfulness, wellbeing at work and economic peace
- Hélène Clot, Grenoble-Alpes Métropole

ROUND-TABLE MEETING 2
THURSDAY 7TH OF JUNE • 9:00-11:00 AM

Health, vector of social transformation?

Recent works have shown how our environments and behaviors lead to the development of our diseases. They teach us to transform our understanding of public health: policies should be oriented to prevention in order to improve the quality of our environment and education. The medical habits should involve differently the patients and their relatives in order make them actors of their therapy.

How can we establish a more balanced dialogue with the patients? How could we invent a different health education, apart from the communication campaigns we all know? Finally, in the current budgetary context, could a new orientation for health policies have an impact on the diminution of the efforts for universal access to health?

SPEAKERS
- Julien Masson, MCF, Professor in Education Sciences, ESPE - University Lyon1
- Claire Perrin, sociologist, co-responsible of the laboratory on Vulnerabilities and Innovation in Sport – Lyon 1
- Valérie Siroux, researcher in environmental epidemiology applied to reproduction and respiratory health
- Muriel Blaisse, Professor at Montreuil Conservatory
- Mondane Jactat, delegated to health, City of Grenoble

FACILITATORS
- Christophe Pison & Christophe Moinard, INSERM, hospital center, Grenoble Alpes University

ROUND-TABLE MEETING 3
FRIDAY 8TH OF JUNE • 9:00-11:00 AM

Is individual wellbeing compatible with social and environmental justice?

How could we go from the society of “having a lot” for some people to a society of sustainable wellbeing for everybody? How could we reconcile individual wellbeing with social and environmental justice? The notion of wellbeing is too frequently reduced to a simple accumulation of individual preferences: it is urgent to give it back a collective meaning, which would incorporate notions like common interest and solidarity in our relation to others, to nature and to ourselves.

SPEAKERS
- Elena Lasida, economist interested in theology, author of “The taste of the other, an opportunity to reinvent the link » (France)
- Jacques Lecomte, psychologist, Author of “The world is better than you think! » (France)
- Xavier Godinot, delegate to the Millennium Development Goals, ATD quart monde (France)
- Dorine Van Norren, Education, culture and Sciences Department, delegate to the Unesco (The Netherlands)

FACILITATORS
- Celina Whitaker, co-president of the collective FAIR
- Brigitte Serrano Bellamy, Caritas France
Companies, wellbeing and Common good: reconcile the irreconcilable?

Can companies contribute to the common good and be a kind of economic peace bearer? What kind of cooperation between actors in order to enhance and preserve the territorial resources, to answer the population needs and the social and environmental stakes? Can wellbeing at work and common good go together?

SPEAKERS

- Raffi Duymedjian, Researcher and Professor at Grenoble Management School, COMUE Grenoble Alpes, Chair Mindfulness, wellbeing at work and economic peace
- Frédéric Dufau Joël, DSI at the Boîte à outils and President of the GERMES network
- Bertrand Foucher, coordinator of Booster Activities and responsible of the general coordination at the association Booster
- ANACT (subject to availability)
- Paul Ariès (subject to availability)

WEDNESDAY 6TH OF JUNE • 1:30-3:00 PM

Vision change and power balance

The difficulty of institutionalisation of new wealth indicators

This contribution will focus on the 2015 Law that aimed at “taking into account new wealth indicators in the definition of public policies”, called the Sos Law. This law has been the first step of the construction of a dashboard for indicators that would be published every year in order to evaluate public policies of the French government. We will study the difficulties that appeared at the moment of selecting and shaping the indicators in the dashboard.

- Félicien Pagnon, IRISso, Paris Dauphine

WEDNESDAY 6TH OF JUNE • 3.00-5.00 PM

Empowerment, participation and collective intelligence

The communicational stake of the co-construction of indicators for the territory

The Clermont metropolis created a social innovation plan encouraging the convergence of a variety of stakeholders (public, private, civil society, researchers) towards the co-construction of indicators. It had a double objective: incite the appearance of a shared vision for the territorial development and put scientific research in service of the territorial stakeholder.

- Nicolas Duracka & Geoffrey Volat, Communication & Societies, university of Clermont-Ferrand

Demystify the well living (Buen Vivir) in Colombia

This contribution will present an experience implemented since 2006 in Colombia that aims at setting the “Well Living” as the principal referent in the development aid policy. It will show among other topics, the tensions and ambiguities of the notion of Well Living and the different interpretations from the rural communities... But it will also show its value when it comes to the definition of a Common good Economy Policy.

- Nathaly Jiménez Von Oertzen, University of Rosario (Bogota)
The wellbeing, a collaborative approach to territorial action?
Starting from an experimentation led by the Toulouse Metropolis Development Council about “co-building” wellbeing indicators with the inhabitants, we will study the notion of wellbeing from social power and capacities to act, that have been mentioned by the inhabitants.

- Natacha Souillard, LERASS, Toulouse 3

Health in the wellbeing indicators: Impact of a capacities approach.
How can we evaluate the efficacy and efficiency of health systems, from the wellbeing of the people? The capacities approach allows us to characterize its possibilities and limits and open the way towards actions that focus on access and use of health service.

- Valérie Fargeon, CREG, University of Grenoble Alpes

Wednesday 6th of June • 3:00-5:00 PM

Wellbeing and individualization
The preparatory works to the definition of new indicators in Grenoble Metropolis have shown that one of the most important dimension of the wellbeing consists in the relations that every individual maintains with others, in different social circles. This analysis (re) opens a larger debate about solidarity links that are the essence of every individual.

- Pierre LeQuéau, University of Grenoble Alpes

Measuring the wellbeing: the contribution of the surveys on European values.
The European Value Surveys measure the satisfactions of the respondents about various aspects of their life: fleeing happy, in good health, happy with one’s job,… These subjective indicators reveal what is most significant in the feeling of happiness: less the material aspects than the feeling of controlling one’s life.

- Pierre Brechon, Sciences Po Grenoble, UMR PACTE

Thursday 7th of June • 1.30-3.30 PM

Transformation of public policies
The indicators in the evaluation of Development Aid public policies: globalized “Well Living” and stakes for a democratic renewal
The indicators classic or “alternatives” bear a special ideology, the evaluation methodology requires a clear political and ethical position. This contribution will focus on the production of indicator in the international relations system, with its innovation and power games, in particular in the European and West African relations.

- Cristèle Bernard, CERDAP², University of Grenoble Alpes

Well living with zero waste: measure happiness in the light of environmental sobriety?
The study “Well living with zero waste”, realized in 2016 for the Agency of environment and energy control, was aiming at demonstrating the compatibility between a sober consumption and a high level of happiness. Is using a happiness indicator equivalent to an evolution of the Agency communication and the environmental public action?

- Marie Mourad, Florian Cegard & Steve Joncoux, CSO/Sc Po Paris
- AGATTE, Montpellier
- GRIDÉQ, University of Québec, Rimouski

Thursday 7th of June • 3:30-5:30 PM

Health
Happiness is the absence of mental burden
The principal problem when it comes to improve wellbeing is the importance of negative feelings – in particular linked to anxiety, depression and chronic pain. Their evolution can be one of the most important elements in a wellbeing index.

- Bjørn Grinde, Division of Mental and Physical Health / Norwegian Institute of Public Health, Oslo. (intervention in English)

- Brent Bleys & Jonas Van der Slycken, Ghent University (intervention in English)
Connected objects to cook better and live well, Cook2Health. Measure wellbeing and health at home. Two multilevel studies.
In the context of the reassertion of the preventive role and the importance of users in public health policies, we will present the results of two studies: Cook2Health (C2H) and Measure wellbeing and health at home (MbSM). The objective is to measure the potential of connected objects to improve alimentary habits.

- Christophe Pison & Christophe Moinard, INSERM, Hospital Center, University of Grenoble Alpes

Promote health by developing psychosocial competences: the role of full mindfulness
In the prevention field, one assisted to a true paradigm shift in the last 10 years. Prevention is based more and more on the development of psychosocial competences, and in particular emotional and relational competences in order to prevent risk behavior, psychopathological disorders and avoidable health problems. Innovative interventions have appeared in different contexts to develop these competences, in particular by mindfulness practice, in particular by mindfulness practice, in particular by mindfulness practice.

- Rebecca Shankland, LIP/PC2S, University of Grenoble Alpes

THURSDAY 7TH OF JUNE • 3:30-5:30 PM
Capacity of the territory and actors

Feedback on the SPIRAL method experience
To give as progress objective the well-living together rises some fundamental questions on the philosophical, political, epistemological and semantical aspects. That is exactly what this contribution intends to evidence, on the base of results and teachings of twelve years of experimentation in the SPIRAL. SPIRAL is an experience of co-construction of a shared vision about universal wellbeing and progress indicators according to the criterion of the citizens.

- Samuel Thirion, European Council, Together network

Well-living in the proximity territories: from the principles to the required competences.
This contribution, based on a study of intraregional dynamics in the Occitan region will present 4 structural factors for the well-living: territorial attractiveness management, the base of the necessary cohesion for quotidian life and living together, accompanying mutations and economic models transitions, the appropriation of the reality of climatic change, risks and contingency that face territories.

Beyond these factors, we will study the conditions of activation of these principals and their concomitance in the territories.

- Laurence Barthe, Flaurance Laumière & Mariette Sibertin-Blanc, LISST, Toulouse

Participative indicators and their promises
This contribution aims at presenting a feedback after two years of participative research toward the construction of a system of indicators about alternative alimentary systems durability in Brussels region. The elements brought to the panel are based on the evaluation of the participative process used and its research tools. It intends to analyse in what extent these mechanisms have enable the realisation of some promises (empowerment, subjectivities integration, crossed learnings).
In the light of these elements, the objective of this contribution will be to open the debate on the interest of participation in evaluations.

- François Lohest & Christophe Nothomb, Free University of Brussels

FRIDAY 8TH OF JUNE • 11:30-12:30 AM
Individual, collective 2
The “solos” in the city.
Sociologic study of wellbeing in a current life style between loneliness and link to others.
What resources do the “solos” can have in their social and institutional environments that allows them not only to face their difficulties but also reinvent a “better-living” subjective as well as objective?

- Camille Duthy, PACTe, University of Grenoble Alpes

Individual or collective: how can we define the wealth of a territory?
In order to examine the phenomena of exclusion and inclusion that these indicators can reveal us, we will take for support a work currently led in the Natural regional Park of the French Vexin. How can we solve the tension between individual and collective dimension of the different approaches used?

- Elisabeth Auclair, Elise Garcia & Anne Hergog, PACTe, University of Grenoble Alpes

FRIDAY 8TH OF JUNE • 1.30-3.00 PM
Wellbeing at work and in the company
How can we orient companies towards ecological and social transformation? A comparison of Gross National Happiness and the Index of Social Progress
Under some circumstances, the use of alternative indicators (“beyond GNB”, RSE, etc) could indeed stimulate a social and ecological transformation. By comparing the Gross National Happiness and the Index of Social Progress, we explore the alternative indicators capacity to ensure this double coordination (between micro and macro levels and between public, private and non-profit stakeholders).

- Isabelle Cassiers & Olivier Malay, Catholic University of Louvain
Assessing the companies humanly: a proposition for an Index of Human Development in Companies

What pertinent evaluation of human position in the companies? With this question we intend to implement a synthetic indicator that would include social, educative and human development parameters. We have tested this new instrument on the principal companies listed on the stock exchange in France on the 3 years-period.

• Gilles Caire & Sophie Nivoix, CRIEF, CEREGE, University of Poitiers

FRIDAY 8TH OF JUNE • 2:00-4:00 PM

Multidimensional poverty
Defining the dimensions of poverty and their measure

The dominating measures of poverty are unidimensional and have been developed without involving people that actually experiment poverty, which give them a contestable validity. The International Movement ATD Quart Monde and Oxford University have implemented an extremely participative method (in 6 countries) in which people in situation of poverty are recognized co-researchers on an equal step with academics and practitioners in national research teams. The demanding process and some results will be presented.

• Xavier Godinot, ATD Quart-Monde, Oxford University.

Presenting the environmental dimensions in the analysis of multidimensional poverty: stakes and perspectives

If the relation between poverty and environment have been thoroughly studied, there is no indicator today capable of identifying on a large scale how the people who are socioeconomically poor are affected by environmental problems. This contribution explore some ways to build such an indicator.

• Géraldine Thiry, Salima Alkire, Judith Schleicher, Universities of Louvain, Oxford and Cambridge

Dynamics of life quality in French territories

In the last decade, life quality, which is measured with around 20 indicators over more than 10 dimensions (income, health, work, housing, access to services, etc) is progressing differently according to their territories. For half of the indicators, the dynamics show a global tendency to territories convergence but some local evolutions go for an increase in spatial disparities.

• Robert Reynard, INSEE, Lyon

Workshops every afternoon

Each afternoon, several workshops will be offered. They are the result of the more than 130 responses received following the call for papers circulated as part of the preparation of the Forum.

Location: Amphitheatre Gallery or Veil Building
(the precise room will be communicated on site)

THREE THEMES TO LIGHT THREE BIG CHALLENGES

The workshops revolve around the three major issues raised by the new wealth indicators. These questions structure 3 themes that can be identified by a color code in the program.

1) RETHINKING OUR MODELS OF SOCIETY

Which model of society do we want to go to? How to overcome the myth of infinite growth in a finite world? How to integrate the issues of social and environmental sustainability, what place to give to the economy? How to mutually enrich visions and practices in different parts of the world, and move towards more just societies and more respectful of life?

2) FROM INDICATORS TO ACTION

What methodologies for the construction of new indicators of good living? What experiences of indicators led to action for operational policies and projects? If the scale of the basin of life seems very appropriate to mobilize the individuals, how to make a massive change on a national or international scale?

3) COLLECTIVELY DEFINE WHAT MATTERS

What role can the different actors of a territory or an organization play in the definition of what counts - what constitutes the Good Living - and in its concrete variation? What is the role and the capacity of action of organizations, collectives, local territories, to rethink education, organizations, health, work, economy? What are the forms of participation and involvement of each stakeholder that produce mobilization and change for all, including the most vulnerable?
Buen Vivir by the indigenous people of Latin America

The dominant development model, based on infinite economic growth, is not sustainable: neither socially nor environmentally. In response to this, the countries of South America such as Bolivia, Colombia, Chile and Cuba, are bearers of visions rooted in values, traditions and beliefs that lead them to think of another conception of development.

Choose a meaningful job... or give a meaning to the one we have ; Take care of our life balance using positive psychology and solution based approaches ; Weave a link between personal change and social change taking the example of GNH; experiment liberated company... this “crossroad experiences” allows participants to attend 3 on 5 proposed testimonies and exchange around concrete achievements, trying to “re-enchant” the place where we spend together time and energy : work.

Towards economic peace: when the social and the environment are not next to the production Crossroads of experiences

To put the interest of future generations at the heart of business activity, assess their contribution to the needs of the population, weave the link between individual change and social change based on the example of the BNB, become a positive player in its environment:

these are the axes that guide today the way of thinking the company for the participants of this workshop. This “crossroads of experiences” mobilizing socio-economic actors from different horizons will allow participants to attend 3 testimonies of the 4 proposed and to discuss concrete achievements aimed at thinking differently about the productive contribution to the common good. Why produce and how? How to integrate at the heart of the activity other logics of action and evaluation?

Workshops on international cooperation and solidarity: special indicators

Since 2014, the City of Grenoble organizes a regular meeting with the actors who act internationally on the territory of Grenoble, to share, guide, decompartmentalize a public policy that is transversal and participatory by nature. The “Workshops of Cooperation and International Solidarity” have created new dynamics between associative and institutional actors, imagined new spaces for sharing, dialogue and reflection, to better publicize the action of the City Grenoble and its Maison de l’International, to launch new projects. On Tuesday, June 5th, there will be a new edition of these “Workshops”, special indicators! It will be working on the current tools for monitoring and evaluating the international action of the City of Grenoble and together find new indicators to tell what matters.

WEDNESDAY TO SATURDAY, 1:00-7:00 PM • PL. DE VERDUN • GRENOBLE • FREE ENTRY.

Two exhibitions at La Plateforme

• Urban Creation (to discover until July, 21st)

On the place of the citizen in the construction of the city through the eyes of three young planners party on the roads of Latin America. This trip gave rise to numerous meetings of alternative projects (community spaces in favelas, public participative spaces, collective architects ...) but also cultural and urban discoveries. This exhibition showcases the “citizen” aesthetic discovered during the trip: recycled materials, bright colors, simple shapes and accessible to all...

• Reenchant the World, architecture, city, transitions (to discover until July, 28th)

By the City of Architecture & Heritage “Reenchanting the World” is an exhibition-manifesto on the future of the inhabited world, designed with award-winning architects from the Global Award for Sustainable Architecture. These architects form and animate a scene of research and questioning, recognized in the global debate on major transitions and their effect on the condition of men.
